SEVERAL TOWNSMEN ARE BUSY ADDING TO BUSINESS PREMISES

An outward and visible sign of the growth of business activity in Wainwright is to be seen these days in the fact that several of our merchants are adding to their business space by additions to their property.

The Wainwright Pharmacy are having a big addition built to the back of their store on Main street, and Mr. P. D. Laird has the contract for this work.

Among the residential improvements can be mentioned the fencing of the Pawling property on Fifth avenue east, and the planting of trees by a number of our citizens for the ultimate beautification of their holdings.

This week has seen the staking out of the property for the erection of the new Masonic hall which is to be built right away on Main street.

At a meeting held in the Council chamber on Monday night, the baseball club was re-organized for the season. Mr. W. Crowe was elected manager, with Mr. W. Parks as secretary. Messrs J. Dous and L. Mitchell are the Finance committee who will solicit subscriptions to get the club on its feet.

CROP REPORT STARTS FOR 1928 SEASON

BANK OF MONTREAL TO KEEP CLOSE TAB ON CONDITIONS AS REPORTED

Through the courtesy of the Bank of Montreal, we will be able to give our readers a weekly resume of crop conditions each week as compiled from reports sent to head office from the managers of the different branch offices of that institution.

In General—Seeding of wheat is proceeding rapidly throughout the prairie provinces and with favorable conditions in every district, the indications are that a larger area will be put under than last year.

In the prairie provinces and especially in Alberta soil conditions generally are in a satisfactory shape with plenty of moisture for germination.

In the north-eastern area, wheat seeding is from 15 p.c. to 25 p.c. completed, and all under favorable conditions.

Weather conditions have been good throughout, and from 25 p.c. to 35 p.c. of the wheat has been sown as an average in the southern portion of the province.

Seeding is general over the three prairie provinces, although in some portions excessive moisture has retarded operations somewhat.

In Manitoba they are now sowing coarse grains and conditions there are as early as last year.

Livestock generally is in good condition and pastures are making good growth.

Mr. John McKay arrived during the week from Edmonton, to take over the checking duties of Jack Towers.

NAVY LEAGUE OF CANADA, ALBERTA DIVISION

The Rev. Fred Cooke who has been in Wainwright during the past week in connection with the Navy League of Canada, wishes to thank the many contributors to those funds for the sum of about $35.00. The organization assists the widows and orphans of deceased, members of the merchant marine, as these do not receive any government assistance. It also supports sailors' homes, and institutions in all the larger Canadian ports, and looks after the welfare of the men when they are ashore. In addition it trains boys and young men for the merchant marine service.

PROVINCE MAY JOIN WITH DOM.

INQUIRY TO BE MADE INTO OLD AGE PENSIONS SAYS BROWNLEE

Edmonton—Careful inquiry will be made between now and the next session of the provincial legislature, it is stated by Premier Brownlee, into the question of old age pensions. This will be with a view of determining whether or not the Dominion Act shall be put into force in Alberta and the information will be available for the legislature and for the purposes of the government in deciding upon its policy.

No Commissioner—As part of the proposed inquiry, a canvass will be made of the municipalities throughout the province, in order to ascertain the numbers likely to be requiring pensions under the scheme.

The distribution of probable costs of such pensions will be naturally one of the most essential points in deciding the question.

The premier does not think that Alberta will follow the example of Ontario, which has appointed a commissioner for a similar investigation.

The work will instead be done by members of the civil service and government staff.

Word has been received from Ottawa, that the estimates for the year passed by the Federal government last week include $35,000.00 for the new Wainwright Post office, which will be erected this year.

FIRST FORTNIGHTLY REPORT ON CROP

ISSUED BY DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, ALBERTA, MAY 12th, 1928

Seeding of wheat is from sixty to seventy-five per cent. completed in the southern part of the province and from thirty-five to fifty per cent. in central and northern sections and spring work is proceeding under ideal conditions, according to telegraphic reports received by the Department of Agriculture.

In a number of districts early sown wheat is well above the ground and a start has been made with the seeding of coarse grains. All reports indicate that the soil is in excellent condition for regular sowing, especially true of the central part of the province where rain and snow during the past week somewhat delayed spring work.

Seeding of wheat is general throughout the Peace River country with sixty to eighty per cent. completed in a number of districts.

Increase in Acreage—Reports from a number of districts in the province indicate that the 1928 wheat acreage will show an increase of from five to fifteen per cent. over that of last year, with very little difference in the coarse grain acreage except in localities in which spring work has been unusually delayed.

The wheat acreage of the province will be limited to some extent by the small amount of fall plowing done last year, but in many cases this will be more than offset by the large acreage summer plowed and newly broken in 1927.

Good progress is being made with the threshing of the 1927 crop which is still standing in the field in some southern districts and the quality of grain being threshed at this time is reported to be considerably better than was anticipated.

Winter Wheat Looks Good—Another week will see the completion of sugar beet seeding in the south of the province where a large acreage is being put in. Winter wheat and winter rye have come through the season very satisfactorily and in practically all cases good stands are reported.

Livestock generally is in good condition and pastures are making good growth.

SOMETHING REAL NEW IN KITCHEN HARDWARE

Mr. Bill Washburn is showing an absolutely new line in kitchen utensils in the new 1928 "Kolorware" which has received so favorable a reception since its creation. A look at his window will convince the house wife that to take away that dull, drab, kitchen-ware appearance from their pots and pans, "Kolorware" promises to fill the bill. The utensils are all guaranteed, and follow out the latest chromatic schemes in "bright things for the bright ones." On Saturday this is specially priced to introduce it!

MORRIS-FIELDHOUSE WEDDING IN CITY

ANOTHER YOUNG COUPLE WILL GO TO TURNER VALLEY OILFIELDS

A wedding of wide interest took place in Edmonton on Thursday when Geraldine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. Fieldhouse of Wainwright, Alberta, became the wife of Mr. Godfrey MacArthur Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Morris of this city. The Rev. Canon Pierce-Goulding of All Saints' cathedral, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives.

The bride was charming in an ensemble suit of dove grey with a corsage bouquet of roses and lily of the valley.

Her sister, Mrs. Appleton, was the matron of honor, and wore a gown of rose beige truce with a hat of the same tones. Mr. Aracy Morris, brother of the bridegroom was the best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the drawing room of Mr. and Mrs. Fieldhouse's suite at the Macdonald hotel and the wedding supper was served in one of the private dining rooms. The bride's mother, wore a gown of blue georgette and Mrs. J. H. Morris chose one of mauve and blue shades.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris left by motor for Turner Valley where they will reside.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morris of Turner Valley, Mr. and Mrs. Applington of Yoford, and Mr. and Mrs. Hackett of Wainwright, Edmonton Journal.

AIR MAIL FOR CANADA STARTS

ALL PLANES KEEP UP TO SCHEDULE WITH BUT ONE MINOR ACCIDENT

Montreal—The Dominion government's air mail service made an auspicious start on Saturday and with the exception of a minor accident to one plane all time schedules were kept.

With a good tail wind to help it along, the mail and cargo plane from Toronto arrived here on Saturday afternoon. The plane was piloted by Capt. J. H. Martin and made the flight of 300 miles in two hours and 37 minutes. In addition to 15 bags of mail, nine for Montreal delivery and six containing mail for British and foreign countries, the plane carried a consignment of goods to a local store.

Make Good Time—Good time was also made by the Ottawa plane. It left the capital at 1:35 and arrived here 55 minutes later.

The bags containing the overcast mail were included with the cargo of the plane which left shortly after the arrival of the Toronto and Ottawa machines for Rimouski. Both planes reached Rimouski in fast time and met the liner Regina, bound for Europe.

Cargo Taken On—Yesterday three other planes arrived carrying the mail of the steamer Empress of Scotland, which docked at Quebec yesterday afternoon. The planes took on their cargo at Rimouski. One of the planes was forced down at Riviere Ouelle with engine trouble. After the plane had been refueled, the plane continued its journey to Montreal and arrived here shortly after its companions had landed.

The three planes carried several bags of mail destined for Ontario points and these left Montreal at noon for the Queen City.

Railway Fatality At Level Crossing

J. LATCH, SECTION FOREMAN AT FABYAN, TURNS AUTO IN FRONT OF TRAIN

On Wednesday morning last, soon after 6 o'clock a.m., Mr. John Latch, who for many years has been section foreman for the C.N.R., stationed at Fabyan, met death at the level crossing immediately west of Fabyan depot.

From information to hand, it appears that the deceased had arisen early for the purpose of taking some machine repairs to his brother on the farm a few miles south of Fabyan.

Auto at Depot—He was accustomed to keep his automobile at the back of the depot, and it was this mode of travel he used. The car had the side curtains on. Mr. Latch knew that a west bound freight was due about that time, but as the train was running a few minutes late, possibly considered that it had passed. He started out from the back of the building and just got to the crossing (only a short distance west) when he turned right into the front of the train.

Wife Saw Crash—Mrs. Latch, who heard the whistle from the engine, although the wind was blowing very strong from the west, looked from the window of the depot, and unfortunately saw the whole happening. The engineer kept the whistle blowing short toots, but presumably on account of having the side curtains on the car and the wind being so strong, the unfortunate man was not aware of his danger.

Sergeant Stewart, A.A.P., and Acting coroner Dr. Mackenzie, were both notified at Wainwright, and immediately left for the scene of the disaster. After viewing the scene, and hearing the facts of the occurrence it was decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The unfortunate victim was literally cut to pieces, while the car was a total wreck.

Funeral on Friday—On Friday morning, the Rev. M. Murphy, of St. Luke's church conducted the funeral service at the church, at which a very large congregation of sympathizers and friends attended, after which interment was made at Wainwright cemetery. A long cortege of cars followed the body to its last resting place.

Born in Russia—The late Mr. Latch, who was well known in Wainwright and was 31 years of age, was born in Russia and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wallace, who has been in the East taking post graduate work for the past two months, is expected to arrive home from Chicago this week end.

The Golf club have an ambitious program prepared for their Empire Day tournament on Wednesday next. Ladies' events start at 12 noon, while the men's events will commence their exercises a couple of hours early.

Casing Has Arrived—This week has seen the arrival of the casing for the bottom of this well, and it is intended to keep every thing in such shape that so soon as the oil is obtained, the well can be made to produce at the earliest possible moment.

We learn also that the Asher refinery at the B.P. 3B well is now selling right at the well head all the gasoline and distillate which this test plant is able to produce at present.

We learn that Mr. H. V. Fieldhouse, on Saturday last completed the arrangements for the purchase of the Hoegh residential property on Main street, and will be moving his home there shortly.

Miss Kitty arrives in Wainwright on Wednesday May 30th. The Dramatic club is introducing her.

FIRE LADDIES CALLED TWICE—Saturday last saw the alarm of fire given twice, both morning and afternoon runs being demanded of the chemical motor. In the morning a pile of lumber at the back of the Wainwright Pharmacy was burned by someone's carelessness, so someone's carelessness with an incinerator drum, while the other run was to the Bruner Service station. Practically no damage was done in either case.

years of age. He came to Canada some 15 years ago. After a stay of about a year in Ogario, he came to Alberta where he worked for a little time near Cooking Lake.

Twelve years ago he went to Kananaskis, and during that time has worked there for the C.N.R. as section foreman. Ten years ago he married Miss Ada Masie, daughter of another old-timer here, and from that union there are six children all living. A brother of the deceased is living on a farm in the Fabyan district, while his mother and father are still alive at their old home in Russia.

Thinking of Quitting—A sad circumstance in connection with this death is the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Latch had about made up their minds to resign from the railroad work and take up residence on their half-section farm, where they own just south of Fabyan. In fact they had been planning that action for some considerable time.

Fellow workers and friends of the deceased acted as pallbearers at the funeral, and during the time of respect were laid on the coffin by the widow and family, wreathe; Mr. and Mrs. Dalton, wreathe; Mr. and Mrs. G. Madder, cross; Mr. and Mrs. Dietrich, spray; and others.

The sympathy of the whole community is extended to Mrs. Latch and her six

MOTHER—
GOD BLESS HER!
Once more, that best of all the many "Days" that have come into being in the past few years—Motherer's Day has come and gone.

Not one of us, sons and daughters of mothers as we should need to be reminiscent of Mother on "Mother's Day" or on any other day for that matter. With all of us every day is "Mother's Day" and should be so. Some of us, the ones with the restless feet, appear to forget her,
but it may be that the wanderer
thinks most and oftenest of Mother.
If there is anything in telepathy, the wanderer surely does so, for Mother thinks most and oftenest of the young who left the nest to try their wings afar.

It was Coleridge who said "A mother is a mother still, the holiest thing alive." That is a profound truth. Nothing can take away from a mother the supreme fact of her motherhood. No matter who may happen, death, separation, misunderstanding, forgetfulness, she is a mother still. Truly, too, she is the "holiest thing alive" because she is part of the creative plan of the Most High adding to the glory of the race and ensuring its future. It is not for nothing that woman has become the dearly religious being she is. The task of motherhood is divine; motherhood is a spiritual function.

The glory of motherhood has ever been in the sacrifices the mother has been ready to make, and make so gladly. The pain and anguish of child bearing; the tender devotion to the helpless child at the breast; the care ful nurture of the wee feet during the formative years; the sharing of little sorrows—yet how great to a child!—and the kissing away of child bruises; the understanding of temper and temperament; the loving of what is sometimes unlovely; the being a refuge in time of storm; the encouraging of youthful ambitions;
the insight into impulses and motives that others do not understand; the willingness to know only the best of her boys and girls and the utter inability to see the worst, never believing it there, and the sheer loyalty with which, no matter what others may think, believe, or say, nor how much others condemn, she stands
by with sympathy, love, forgiveness, and an ever renewing readiness to sacrifice for her little ones—
never cease to be her little ones—

these are the things that compel our love for Mother, and that make us eagerly welcome "Mother's Day" as an additional opportunity to do obedience to her whom we love and whose we are in the most intimate way.

Mother—God Bless Her! God will surely bless her, but let us call down blessings upon her who has so richly blessed us. In so blessing her we shall assuredly bring down a richer fuller blessing upon our own lives,
for the very essence of motherhood lies in Mother giving back in full measure "pressed down, running over" the love her loved ones pour out on her.

LOWERING OF
WHEAT STANDARDS

The best wheat in the world is produced by the soil and climate of Western Canada. Carelessness in farming methods and the encroachment of weeds have tended to reduce the grades of western wheat and this degrading will continue with serious effects upon the reputation of the west's wheat unless the farmers themselves adopt measures to stop it, says the Calgary Herald.

An old tale is told of a European municipality where the annual taxes were paid in wheat. The growers brought their wheat to a common vat into which they poured it. One man said to himself that if he poured water into the vat it would not be noticed amongst so much wheat. But when the payments were completed the municipality found that the vat contained nothing except water.
This fable has its application to this province. The individual farmer may say that if he does not exercise care in his farming, if he allows weeds to grow and spread on his land and if he uses poor quality of seed, he will be able to do pretty well anyway and his comparatively small quantity of wheat will not much affect the general standard. But when many farmers act with a smaller allowance for the reputation of Alberta wheat the total effect will be highly damaging.

The pure seed authorities of the province have taken this situation in hand and are vigorously endeavoring to induce the wheat-growers to adopt more permanently successful methods of production.
These efforts are certain to have a good influence. What is most needed is for the farmers themselves to realize the importance of stemming the prevailing tendency to a lower standard of wheat production, with the inevitable financial loss that this will eventually incur.

FOX HAS MADE
GREAT DOG STORY
Fox Filma has scored another outstanding hit with "Wings of the Storm" here next Monday Tuesday and Wednesday at the Theatre with Thunder, the great dog star, in the featured role. It has aroused renewed interest in "man's best friend"
while the vivid performances of Virginia Brown Faire, Reed Howes and William Russell are very pleasing.

The scenic beauty of the production, which was directed by J. G.
Blystone, is in itself a genuine delight and the photography is excellent.
The story is based on the mental and physical evolution of a dog.
But it is the remarkable performances of Thunder, the magnificent police dog, that arouses the greatest interest. His performance is fascinating in the extreme and the same of dog intelligence. There are several other good dog actors in the cast, among them White Fawn.
Thunder's mate but all are overshadowed by the work of Thunder.

CO-OPERATIVE PLAN

keting and merchandising are now under consideration by the provincial government, through the co-operative committee of the cabinet, which is with Hon. O. L. McPherson and D.

M. Malin, of the marketing service, as sitting members, was held in the premier's office, last week, for the purpose of opening up the question and outlining future methods of work.

Over eight months have passed since the commencement of the crop year on September 1, 1927, and ninety per cent of the crop has been delivered. The great bulk of non-Pool wheat has left the growers' hands.

Except for those who have not had their grain threshed owing to weather conditions and the few who hold their grain since last harvest, the non-Pool farmers have little concern in the present higher prices for wheat.
The "Average closing price" ever on the lips of the Grain Trade should really be figured during the time the bulk is going on the market. That is, from September April. With very little wheat in non-Pool farmers' hands how can they be benefited by high prices from now on?

Wheat Pool members on the other hand have a vital interest in present prices. They have seen their Pool start the crop year under a burden of tremendous wheat supplies and a handicap of a cloud of "bearish" news. Last fall grain poured in rivers into Winnipeg, and Vancouver's facilities were taxed to the limit.
Argentina had raised a tremendous crop.
Europe's production was up by millions of bushels. The United States' wheat crop was heavy and altogether things did not look any too rosy.

The Canadian Pool had a difficult task on hand and Pool members may have a good excuse for a feeling of relief at the successful manner in which a grave situation was handled by the organization they had created. Pool members are now in a position to participate to an appreciable extent in the rising market prices.

If there was no Wheat Pool in Western Canada what would the situation have been?
The bulk of the wheat would be out of the farmers' hands and in the hands of market intermediaries who would reap a very rich profit indeed. The Wheat Pool has changed this situation in a decided fashion. Now Pool members can sit back unworried and feel assured they will get the best year's average price for the product of their labors.

NO ONE IS GOING TO EXTRACT EX-TRAORDINARY PROFITS FROM POOL
WHEAT
Farmers should realize that only by the Power of Control of Volume has the Wheat Pool been able to function efficiently. This volume is assured by Signed Contracts.

Join your brother Pool members in this vital undertaking.

SHEEP

This market has shown little change during the past week at either Calgary or Edmonton.

GRAIN

The market at Winnipeg during the session yesterday, reflected bullish tone in spite of higher Liverpool cables and an anticipated bullish United States government winter crop report. Seeding throughout Alberta, especially in the south, is getting well under way.

BUTTERFAT—BUTTER

BUTTERFAT—Decline of 2c registered Monday of this week at Calgary, making special grade 30c, first 37c, and second 34c at the centralizers, with the country point prices 2c lower. Edmonton prices 2c higher. Receipts are said to be picking up gradually CREAMERY BUTTER—No change in prices since the last report. Make increasing, but will have to show still further improvement before there will be a surplus for shipping. Eastern markets anticipate lower levels, according to reports. Coast market is quiet under fairly heavy offerings from New Zealand, some of which is said to be coming to the prairies. MILK—Values unchanged and receipts are showing small surplus over sales.

City dealers find fair demand, but supplies difficult to obtain GREENFEED—No trade as far as country point buyers are concerned. During last year a total of 456 new manufacturing establishments were located on the lines of the Canadian National Railways. These new plants involved a capital expenditure more than $44,000,000. In addition, 109 concerns already located on the lines of the National system made additions to their plants at an estimated expenditure of $29,000,000.

Communities that suffer from infestation of the mosquito at the opening of the summer months may largely overcome the difficulty by carrying out a general campaign of control. The entomological branch of Agriculture at Ottawa has been working on this problem for several years and has taken an active part in campaigns that have brought relief from the pest which for many years appeared in troublesome numbers. In a new circular on the subject, Number 62 of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, it is recommended that public-spirited individuals who wish to control a local mosquito pest, should form a committee and endeavour to arouse public interest in the project through the press, by lectures, and other ways. This appears to be necessary in order to secure the co-operation of the public and the needed financial assistance.

Breed in Stagnant Pools
The next step is to locate the most quiet breeding areas which generally consist of temporary or semi-permanent pools of stagnant water. Pools that are suspected should be examined carefully by passing a strainer through the water collecting the larvae, which when present are easily visible when placed in a white vessel containing water. Having discovered the breeding places the next step is to apply oil to the pools. This naturally spreads itself in a fine film over the entire surface destroying the larvae. The circular, which is obtainable from the Publications Branch of the Department gives explicit instructions for doing this work.

Common sense and courtesy are the chief elements of safe driving. 17,000 persons are being killed every year because someone took a chance.

Common sense takes the guess out of driving and makes safety certain. More than 70% of the fatalities are cases where a motor vehicle knocks down a pedestrian.

Records from 180 cities show that jay-walking is a major cause of traffic accidents.

Different sections of the country use different signals. But always remember the car behind you.

You cannot be sure that the man behind you will know exactly what you mean.

But if you put your hand out when ever you are going to make any change in your course, either in direction or speed, that will give warning to those behind.

CANADIAN BRIEFS

For the conveyance of mail in Canada, 37,547 miles of railways are used of which 22,000 miles belong to the Canadian National Railways. The mail mileage used daily by the Post Office Department is 128,499.

Nineteen carloads of beef cattle, 418 heads, were shipped recently from Ashcroft, British Columbia, on the Canadian National Railways, to Toronto, Ontario. This was the largest shipment of cattle from that part of British Columbia to eastern Canada.

The total stand of timber in Canada, including all species, both hardwood and soft wood, and without regard to their accessibility, is placed at 242,127,000,000 cubic feet.

During last year a total of 456 new manufacturing establishments were located on the lines of the Canadian National Railways. These new plants involved a capital expenditure more than $44,000,000. In addition, 109 concerns already located on the lines of the National system made additions to their plants at an estimated expenditure of $29,000,000.

Communities that suffer from infestation of the mosquito at the opening of the summer months may largely overcome the difficulty by carrying out a general campaign of control. The entomological branch of Agriculture at Ottawa has been working on this problem for several years and has taken an active part in campaigns that have brought relief from the pest which for many years appeared in troublesome numbers. In a new circular on the subject, Number 62 of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, it is recommended that public-spirited individuals who wish to control a local mosquito pest, should form a committee and endeavour to arouse public interest in the project through the press, by lectures, and other ways. This appears to be necessary in order to secure the co-operation of the public and the needed financial assistance.

Breed in Stagnant Pools
The next step is to locate the most quiet breeding areas which generally consist of temporary or semi-permanent pools of stagnant water. Pools that are suspected should be examined carefully by passing a strainer through the water collecting the larvae, which when present are easily visible when placed in a white vessel containing water. Having discovered the breeding places the next step is to apply oil to the pools. This naturally spreads itself in a fine film over the entire surface destroying the larvae. The circular, which is obtainable from the Publications Branch of the Department gives explicit instructions for doing this work.

"THE JAZZ SINGER," starring Al Jolson, is a Warner Bros. Picturization of this novel. It is based upon the play by Samson Raphaelson.

Now she heard the Cantor stirring in the next room, and her first impulse was to rush and tell him of the news contained in the letter. But she remembered her promise to speak no more of Jackie, and perhaps, she thought it would be better to allow her husband's wrath to cool before she suggested any kind of reconciliation. And so she sat and prayed silently for the return of her only child.

CHAPTER VIII

Before a shimmering, silver drop that fell in languorous folds then swaying forms in gossamer green gyrated through a maze of delicate meanders. Ten pattering pairs of facile feet wove sinuous circles on a bed of pale pink rose petals. In high relief against the greenleaved a rippling fountain nymph caught in a lavender rain spray whirled and eddied in a vortex of melodious harmonies. Lament flames of limpid amber immersed the symphony in a golden fluid of light. The audience thundered its applause.

Behind the silver curtain stage hands worked in feverish activity setting up the next scene. Backgrounded by a tall, white-brick walls that like the tower of Babel rose toward a sky domed by inch-wide iron shafts crowded by a canvas of a rowling from long ropes, starred by penulious sandbags, these figures of earth moved silently with the precision of a Ballet Mechanique. In the semi-darkness long shadows waved amid the ganging lines, until the air was filled with writhing undulations as ephemeral as the shadows of the Brooklyn Bridge seen of a misty evening.

As the curtain fell the house orchestra jazzed into a rousing air. The audience still cued. Up went the curtain and Gary Dale took her bow gathering the lavender rain spray of tinsel closely about her. As she bowed she could see standing in the wings and great painted lips of Jack Robin. With his white-cotton gloved hands he, too was showering his adulation. Again and again the house lights went up and down on the curtain calls.

As she took another bow Mary turned in the wings to face Jack Robin. They smiled, gazed into each other's eyes. A strange contrast they made, these two. The blonde coloring of the girl, accentuated by the dark mascara on her eyes and the lavender of her costume that reflected some of its lights on her shell-pink arms and neck. The black oiliness of the negro make-up on the boy's face; the little white line revealing the skin of the forehead where, on the stage the curly black wig had covered it. But so accustomed were they to seeing each other in this guise of the theatre that the sight did not strike them as at all incongruous.

"I don't know what I'd do, Jack, if it wasn't for the encouragement you give me," Mary laughed up at the black face before her, a little easing a little provocation.

"But I love to watch you dance," Jack attempted to explain his presence in the wings, realizing that Mary was laughing at him.

"Take your curtain a stage hand was calling to Mary as he rang up in answer to the applause that was still to be heard from out front.

Mary ran on again, bowed, and returned, as the curtain fell.

"Well it's something to know that someone appreciates your work Mary resumed the conversation where they had left off.

But her words embarrassed Jack not a little. During the time they had been traveling together he had never once forced his attention on the girl. They had been good companions in fair weather and foul. Mary appreciated Jack's reserve, but she knew too, with the innate consciousness of every woman, that it was her own attitude that had helped to further this feeling of comradeship with out turning it into a sentimental affair. And it was for this reason that she held always to a lighter vein of talk, excepting during those times when each discussed his work.

"But you know I'm just crazy about—about your act," Jack finished off his sentence awkwardly. But it was plainly evident from the tender glow in his eyes and the slight catch in his voice, that he had meant something quite different.

Mary smiled and pushed Jack around towards the dressing rooms. "Hurry up and dress," she told him opening her own door. "I've got something to show you as soon as I get out of this make-up."

Jack hurried off to change, but not before several of the chorus girls wending their way up the circular iron staircase to the dressing rooms on the balcony had noticed the two together and had caught Jack's frank avowal of interest in Mary. They entered the dressing room and began unhooking their bodices and slipping out of their costumes.

"Say he sure is goofy about here," nodded a short, plump brunette who had recently joined the show.

"Listen, babe, we got that before Noah was a pup put in a tall red-haired girl who affected a pale make-up. He's been cheering from the side lines ever since we left 'Prisco'."

"Ta-de-da-de . . . Ta-de-da-de," the plump brunette hummed the opening bars of the Wedding March. "Aw he ain't got a chance! Interposed a fuzzy-haired peroxide blonde, roughly drawing on a pair of sheer silk stockings.

"I should say not! The red-haired girl said, 'No mammy singer for Mary. She's got ideas, she has.' 'Hey, what d'ya mean, ya bum?'" a slim girl turned to appraise the speaker the cold cream still thick on her face and a stick make-up cloth in her hand. "Mary's a good kid and I'll beat hell out of anyone that says different."

"O, shut up, nobody's picking on you!" the red-haired girl defended herself. "I'll say what I please."

"Not about Mary, you won't. Just because she's got enough brains to get on you huns give her the razberry. You make me tired!"

"Pipe down you two!" screamed the peroxide blonde and gave a chance at that tag! She snatched the make-up cloth from the slim girl. And Mary and Jack were forgotten for the moment.

Donaire Jack was sitting before his dressing table creaming his face and removing the grease paint. Beside him, energetically rubbing his chubby features sat Buster Billings who, had as he hoped caught up with the show, and because of their old friendship the two were still dressing together and using the same mirror. Jack was dreaming, forgetfully of Mary. After awhile he turned on his chair and looked at his friend.

"I wonder what Mary had to show me, Bust," he questioned thoughtfully. "Can't imagine. Maybe it's an engagement ring," Buster teased. Jack's heart stopped beating for an entire second and then leaped frantically into his mouth. Then he caught the levity in Buster's wide grin and he smiled, but it was not a particularly successful attempt at merriment.

"Oh, it could hardly be that. Not that I'd blame anybody for being for falling—," Jack floundered helplessly. "But you know what I mean Buster. But Mary's so interested in her work and—and! He looked frantically at his friend for help and assurance.

"Aw I was only jokin'! Jack Buster rose to hang up his costume. He came and laid a friendly arm across the singer's shoulder. "But you'd better forget her, kid. She's wrapped up in her career—," he said. "An' you got a chance your self if you keep going."

Jack sighed and turned away. He felt that what Buster had said was true—still, that didn't keep him from dreaming his dreams; it didn't keep the ache out of his heart; it couldn't paralyze those sharp pains that ran up and down his spine each time he looked at Mary.

"I'm just going to see Mary for a few minutes. Buster'll be right back he called closing the dressing room door.

He walked along the passage and knocked at the door of dressing room Number One.

"Mary!" he called. "It's Jack."

"Just a minute!" Mary flung open the door and turned around to adjust her hat before the mirror. "Come in!" Jack entered a little fearful of what he might be going to hear and yet anxious to hear it that he might relieve himself of his anxiety.

"Look Jack! Read that!" She picked up a telegram from her dressing table and handed it over. Jack took it and opened it mechanically. Then his eyes, too, brightened.

"New York—Miss Dale—State-Lake Theatre, Chicago, Ill." he read. "Would you consider leading role new musical show fell opening stop rehearsals begin two weeks stop wire answer, Harry Lee."

He turned to face a happily smiling girl who could scarcely keep her feet still.

"Gee that's a great chance for you Mary!" he exclaimed, returning the wire. "But I always knew you'd get it."

"I know isn't it marvellous! Mary was nervously searching for a pocketbook and gloves and not quite conscious of whether she was looking for anything at all or not. "Just think! That's the opportunity I've been waiting for ever since I began to dance. And now it's here. O, Jack I can hardly believe it!"

"How did it happen? Do you know Jack asked still enthusiastic.

"Well you see I was sent to Lee several times from a casting agency," Mary explained "but somehow my work never seemed to fit any of his shows. Then one time he caught our act when we were playing Brooklyn and he came back to see me, and he said then that he liked my work, and as soon as he got a show that would suit me he wanted to take a chance and put me on. He's really a frightfully sort of person. But I'm so thrilled."

"I know Mary I don't blame you. Gee that's the chance we're all looking for. Have you answered the wire yet?"

"Na, I haven't had time. It just came today. It was here waiting for me when I got to the theatre this afternoon, and I was so nervous I didn't know whether I was going to get through the act or not. I didn't say anything about it then, because I thought that if I ever began talking about it I'd never be able to go on."

"Have you told Berg?"

"No I haven't told a soul but you. You're the only person who knows about it. But I'll have to see Berg and see how soon I can leave and straighten all that out later. I'm going out to answer this, because I don't want to lose any time. I'll probably have to continue this week and then go on to New York. I want to get settled a little here before I start rehearsals. It won't give me much time to start in two weeks. And I want to go up to Muri's and pick up a few new steps and—"

Mary was talking on and on, but for the first time since he had met the girl Jack was not hanging on her every word. For when she spoke of leaving, finishing out the week, notifying Berg, going on to New York, it was suddenly borne in on Jack's consciousness that this meant, quite possibly, the end of his friendship with Mary. He could see the hateful creaking iron monster that would fly from Chicago to New York taking with it the one person who had come to mean everything in his life. And after that—he could scarcely bear to think of what could happen after that. Mary would undoubtedly be a star on Broadway, and he would still be a two-a-day singer out on the road.

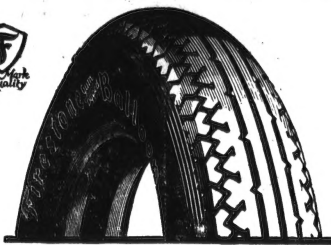

Jack caught the back of the chair against which he had been leaning with an unsteady hand. He had known for some time that sooner or later this break would have to come. But it never seemed so near so palpably real. And now that it had come he was stunned for the moment. What should he say? What could he say? He wanted to seize Mary in his arms and carry her far, far away from stage and theatre and managers and agents, and find some nice desert island where there would be no careers to think of. But that sort of thing wasn't done—except in story books, and this was no story—it was stern reality. He sighed longingly, and made an effort to speak.

"I'll be sorry Mary," he began in one way. I hate to see you go. But—but I understand what this means to you. I—we—we'll miss you a lot!"

LORD ANGLESEY TO SEE OIL HOLDINGS

Toronto—Curiosity as to recent developments on his 12,900 acre oil holding in southern Alberta, is the motive that brought the Marquis of Anglesey back to Canada after less than five months absence. He arrived in Toronto from New York and left for the west aboard a C.P.R. private car. He is accompanied by the Marchioness and by a friend Captain T. Rhodes. Twelve thousand acres represents the most recently acquired plot, so to speak, in an estate that includes some 30,000 acres in London, Staffordshire and Wales, and a sizeable ranch in British Columbia, as well.

BILL TO AMEND NATURALIZATION ACT

OTTAWA—The government bill to amend the Naturalization Act by eliminating the jurisdiction of the courts in granting naturalization came before the house of commons again last week.

Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, quoted the section of the statute which was to be deleted. In the United States, he said, applicants for naturalization were compelled to appear in open court supported by two witnesses and were compelled to renounce their allegiance to other countries. He proceeded to describe the procedure in other British countries.
